

Reds Say U.S. Evades 11-Power Pact In New Policy In Japan

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Russia's Ambassador Alexander S. Panyushkin today charged the United States with evading the 11-nation Far Eastern commission in ordering new measures for building up the Japanese economy.

Panyushkin termed the recovery measures "in direct contradiction" with policies of the commission, the top allied governing group for the Japanese occupation.

The Soviet envoy called upon the commission to "adopt its own decision" on ways to assist Japan's recovery. Panyushkin voiced his criticism in a statement submitted to the commission at its weekly closed-door meeting. He later made public that statement.

The new American measures aimed at stabilizing the Japanese economy were issued last month as a directive to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the supreme allied commander. A copy of the order later was submitted to the commission.

Panyushkin called this procedure "inadmissible" because he said it made "fundamental changes" in the occupation and any such action required advance agreement from the commission.

The ambassador coupled his complaint on this point with another in a long series of Russian criticisms of the manner in which the United States is carrying out the Japanese occupation.

SAYS WORLD IS FAR FROM PEAK YIELD IN CROPS

Elmer Pifer, State College agronomist, Wednesday afternoon told more than 100 farmers gathered for the Agricultural Extension association's "Soils and Crops Day" held at St. James Lutheran church that: "Alarmists are claiming that the world, unless it reduces its population, will soon starve to death, because the number of people is becoming too great for the land available for food production."

"After seeing the results of the first Pennsylvania Corn club, and the results in potatoes, tomatoes, and the like where farmers are going after production, I feel that we have a long way to go before that fatal time when we cannot support the population of the world."

"We are far from producing what we can. We have a long way to go until we reach even near the yield that it is possible to obtain."

Reach Record Yield

"Last year, for example, 1,028 bushels of potatoes per acre were grown on one test plot. Now we think of 400 bushels of potatoes to an acre as a good yield. As a matter of fact we have a '400 bushel club' to honor those who achieve that goal. Actually we should raise the amount to 500 or 600 bushels."

"There are so many things to do to improve our farms and to produce better yields that the world can, without doubt, feed itself for a long, long time to come. If all that is known about methods of conserving (Please Turn To Page 3)

RECEIVE CABLE FOR TELEPHONE LINE EXTENSION

Continuation during 1949 of the expansion program being carried on by The United Telephone Company of Pennsylvania was indicated today when it was revealed that some of the cable required for the company's proposed Gettysburg-Hanover line had been received. ### Vegetable Planting Dates

Did you know that cabbage, broccoli and celery seed should be sown under glass next week for extra early plants? Here is a good example of the importance of observing specific dates in starting early vegetables. The editor has prepared a condensed chart of dates, including brief recommendations for handling all early crops. Merely enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope or a 3-cent stamp for a free copy. But do not delay. You need this timely information at once. Of course, all garden questions will be gladly answered.

How To Grow Rhubarb

Every home gardener should grow rhubarb for immediate table use in season and for canning for use around the remainder of the year. Many gardeners may develop profitable local markets for this easily grown vegetable, too. In all cases readers should have our simplified rhubarb growing instructions. This takes the question marks out of every step with this fine crop. Merely enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope or a 3-cent stamp for your free copy. And don't forget to include all the garden questions you want to ask.

Things Of The Soil

Moving Large Shade Trees

It is the common experience of home owners to hesitate in planting shade trees because they do not like to wait for many years to enjoy the comforts such trees are expected to furnish. Like buying a pair of shoes, they want to begin "wearing" a new shade tree at once. The partial solution of this problem is found in setting out a larger or older tree. Of course, there are limitations of weather, soil, type of tree and skill which must be understood before attempting this work.

Perhaps weather ranks second only to methods among the factors influencing success or failure in moving large shade trees. The work can best be done during a mild period in January or early February, not only because the tree is dormant at that time, but because certain advantages can be gained by making use of freezing weather to help protect the root ball which should and must be transferred with the tree.

As advice is stressed in setting out small ornamental and fruit trees and shrubs, so is it likewise emphasized in moving larger trees. First in this category is the necessity of protecting the roots from exposure to the sun and air. Reasons for this emphasis are simple but important. Trees, like all other plants, obtain moisture and soil nutrients solely through the tiny feeder rootlets. Most of these hairy trees are so small they can scarcely be seen with the unaided eye. Often a few minutes of exposure to sun or wind dries out and kills or seriously injures these tender rootlets. Therefore, every step in moving large trees must be planned around the principle that these rootlets must be protected from drying.

Of course, the major problem is to include most of the tree's root mass in the transfer. One of the better ways to accomplish this aim where simple equipment is employed is to dig a deep trench around the root mass and then soak the soil remaining intact with the roots. This should be done when the temperature is above freezing so the water will soak throughout the adhering soil. Then the mover must wait until a cold period when the root mass is frozen solidly or at least sufficiently to hold together during the moving.

Actual movement of the tree is not as difficult as at first imagined. The top and trunk can be pulled over onto a carriage or any suitable type of sled, or the tree may be kept upright and the root mass moved onto any kind of flat platform to permit sledding it to its new location.

In estimating the diameter of the root mass to be frozen in this method of moving, it is well to remember that most trees extend their feeder root tips out slightly farther than the tips of the longest branches reach. It will not be possible or even practicable to include all the roots.

Upper Communities

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Rudisill, who were en route from a southern trip to their home in Wilkes-Barre, were luncheon guests this week of their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Martin T. Walter, Biglerville R. D.

Mrs. George Routsong has moved from Bendersville to the property in Biglerville which she purchased from the J. H. Seaseley estate.

The Golden Rule class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school, Arendtsville, taught by Mrs. Martin T. Walter, met Tuesday evening in the social room of the Arendtsville bank with Miss Elaine Taylor, Miss Janet Baltzley and Mrs. Ned Walter serving as hostesses. The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wilbur Keller, Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. James Schlauch and James Brown, of Nottingham, recently spent a day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Diveley and family, Biglerville R. D.

Miss Alma Rinehart, a student nurse at the University of Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, has concluded a short visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Rinehart, of Aspers.

The meeting of the Good Samaritan class of Trinity Lutheran Sunday school, Arendtsville, which was to have been held next Wednesday evening, has been postponed.

A sound compromise must be reached, else the root bulk will be too large to move.

The hole for the tree should be made several feet deeper and larger in diameter than actually needed to accommodate the root mass. The extra space should be filled under and around with fertile loam.

The newly planted tree must be pruned back to reduce top growth in proportion to interrupted root activities. The trunk must be firmly anchored to prevent swaying. And the trunk and large limbs should be wrapped with several thicknesses of burlap to conserve moisture.

How To Prune Grape Vines

All grape vines should be pruned on a mild day within the next two weeks, weather permitting. Unpruned vines produce little or no fruit; improperly pruned vines may likewise prove unproductive. Why, when, and what are important questions in this task. They are simply answered in our condensed grape pruning instructions. Please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope or a 3-cent stamp for your free copy. All fruit and related questions will be gladly answered. Include them when you write for this timely pruning information.

Who's A Foreigner?

While I'm waiting for a haircut the other day, Slim Hartman lets slip with a crack about those "foreigners" who live by the depot.

"Now wait a minute, Slim," snaps Doc Sherman. "Don't forget we're all 'foreigners' more or less. Some of our families have simply been here longer than others. But even if they came over on the Mayflower, they were foreigners to the Indians."

Slim gets a little red and you could see that Doc had him. "And the reason they came here," he goes on, "was to find freedom to do and think as they wanted to so long as they didn't tramp on the rights of the other fellow."

From where I sit, America became the great land it is today through our being tolerant of different people and different tastes—whether it's a taste for square dancing or waltzing, radio or movies, goat's milk or a temperate glass of sparkling beer.

Nanking, Jan. 27 (AP)—Prospects of peace in China dimmed today. Both Nationalists and communists accused each other of stalling.

The official peace delegation here still worked on peace plans. But high officials expressed the growing belief these efforts would fail. The Nationalists were reported reliably to be bolstering a new defense line below the Yangtze valley.

servicemen and women had paid into their National Service Life Insurance policies.

The solicitors, active in the South and Midwest, have been giving veterans the impression that they represent a veterans' newspaper.

VA explained that when the time comes, dividends will be paid on GI insurance without any expense to the veteran. Necessary forms will be furnished by the Government, without cost.

Better Business Bureaus or local police should be notified if solicitors offer to sell any forms claimed to be necessary in obtaining benefits administered by VA.

Veterans enrolled in schools and colleges under the GI Bill must comply with the regularly prescribed standards and practices of the educational institutions during their period of enrollment, Veterans Administration said.

Student-veterans must abide by all the rules and regulations of the institutions where they are enrolled. They must maintain satisfactory academic marks. Wilful misconduct or unsatisfactory progress are grounds for withdrawal of subsistence and tuition payments.

75 PER CENT WRONG

New York, Jan. 27 (AP) — While some 200 of the nation's top weathermen were attending a session of the 101st National Meeting of the American Meteorological society yesterday, a downfall of snow and sleet turned sidewalks into sticky puddles. An enterprising newsman checked up and found that only about one-fourth of the weathermen had brought galoshes, raincoats or umbrellas.

SAY DIMAGGIO HAS REJECTED $10,000 RAISE

By TED MEIER
New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio was reported today to have turned down a $10,000 raise from the New York Yankees and to be seeking a contract that would make him the highest paid player in baseball history.

Friends mentioned sums like $90,000 and $100,000, but no figures came from the principals.

Following a salary conference yesterday with Yankee officials, DiMaggio said only: "The Yankees made me an offer. I made no counter offer. My understanding is that after a few days they will call me up and we will have another session. Until then I am not going to say whether it will be a quick or a delayed signing."

Includes Bonuses
Del Webb, co-owner of the Yankees, asserted "we're pretty close to coming to terms. I'm sure there won't be any trouble."

The contract offered DiMaggio reportedly called for $65,000 in basic salary, compared to $55,000 a year ago, and a bonus if the Yankees' home attendance exceeds 1,500,000. Last year the Yanks drew 2,400,000 and DiMaggio drew a $15,000 bonus making his aggregate pay for 1948, $70,000.

The $80,000 the late Babe Ruth of the Yanks drew for one season back in the early 1930's generally is supposed to be the highest straight salary paid to a baseball player. Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher, was credited with receiving $82,000 last season under a bonus arrangement. Lou Boudreau, Cleveland manager, was signed on Tuesday to a two-year-old contract, believed to call for $75,000 a year.

VIDEO ALARMS RING MANAGERS

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Fight managers, alarmed by slumping gate receipts, want more cash from television when current contracts expire.

"We didn't know anything about television when we signed up last year," said Charley Johnston, president of the boxing managers' guild. "Since then we've learned plenty. Don't get us wrong. We are all for television. But we want to get paid our share."

That's hardly a novel stand by a fight manager.

"We don't know how much we'll ask," said Johnston, one of the old school of managers, "but it will be more than last year."

When the managers and the 20th century sporting club couldn't get together last spring, there were no fights in the garden or St. Nicholas arena for six weeks as the result of a strike.

"I figure television cuts the big show about 40 per cent," Johnston added. "Our guild—that's the New York boxing managers guild—is lining up guys in every city. They're going to let us know just where those fights are seen on television."

Under the current contract with the 20th century sporting club the fight managers get 25 per cent of the money paid for television. That is divided evenly between the main go performers only. It comes to about $212 a show for each fighter, whether it's St. Nick's or the garden.

YORK-READING TILT FEATURES CAGE PROGRAM

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (AP)—The final touches will be added to the first half of the 1949 Pennsylvania scholastic cage season tomorrow night in crucial games throughout the state.

The long-awaited battle between York and Reading highlights the card as the two undefeated leaders of the strong Central Penn league tangle at Reading. Each has won six straight league contests.

The Red Knights of Reading high must win this game tomorrow night to continue their bid for York's 1948 title. However, the York White Roses can't be counted out of the league race even if they lose the tilt. Reading must meet its three most important rivals, York, Steelton and Hershey Industrial, on their home floors in the second round.

Harrisburg's two entries, John Harris and William Penn, will each be looking for their first win of the league season when they meet Saturday night in the league's other contest this week-end.

Nets 55 Points
Susquehanna league fans are still talking about Sunbury's forward, Bill Shoop, who racked up a sensational 55 points Tuesday night as the Owls trounced Millfburg, 77 to 30, for the loop's first half title.

Shoop accounted for 22 buckets and 11 free throws for what is believed to be Pennsylvania schoolboy individual scoring record.

An important Eastern Penn league tilt sends Easton to unbeaten Hazleton. If the Hazleton Mountaineers should drop this game and Bethlehem take an expected victory over Pottsville, a three-way tie would exist.

Hazleton, Easton and Bethlehem would then play off next week for the loop's first half league title.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Some day this year the baseball folks should get together and toss a wingding in honor of Elmer Daily. . . . Elmer is a country boy who runs a hotel in Ebsburg, Pa., in his spare time and makes a serious business of being president of the Middle Atlantic league. He is in his 25th year on that job, which is sufficient reason for tossing honors his way. . . . Maybe the club owners won't agree. . . . A lot of them haven't forgiven Elmer for his part in the famous "battle of proxies" when they tried to unseat the late Judge Bramham as president of the National association. And even in his own league some of them are peeved because he won't try to lift it above a "class C" rating. . . . "The other day I counted 200 major league players I could remember who were developed in our league," Daily explains. "I like to see those kids develop and I wouldn't be interested in, say, a triple-A league. . . . I think maybe I've done something for American youth where I am."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
Probably the most popular kid in Pennsylvania these days is Glenn "Bones" Adams, who played a lot of football for Mt. Carmel high school. . . . His school principal complains that the boy doesn't even get a chance to study because the college scouts are pestering him so much. . . . California's Olympic oarsmen didn't take part in fall practice this year but will start tugging oars again when "spring" drills begin February 15. Meanwhile crews in New England have been on the water almost every day during this spring-like winter. . . . Emmerson Dickman, former Red Sox pitcher who has been pictured lately as a "model" husband, will coach the Princeton baseball team next spring. He should do a good job.

HE JUST STOLE AWAY
Ed Hunter, U. of Pennsylvania tub-thumper, is accusing Herb Good of the Philly Warriors of "kidnaping" his basketball coach. . . . Seems that Howie Dallmar, who coaches Penn, told Good he would fly to Minneapolis to play with the Warriors if Penn beat both Dartmouth and Lafayette. . . . Penn did; the Lafayette game ended at 4:15 p. m., and Good immediately handed Dallmar a ticket on the 5:15 plane. Howie made it okay.

Hannegan Sells Interest in Cards
St. Louis, Jan. 27 (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan, former Postmaster General, sold his interest in the St. Louis Cardinals today to his partner, Ferd M. Saigh, Jr.

Hannegan told a press conference in his Sportsman's Park office that he is getting out of baseball on orders from his physician.

Saigh becomes president and majority stockholder of the Cardinals, which he and Hannegan bought in November, 1947, from Sam Breadon.

Neither would disclose the price involved in the transfer of stock, dismissing questions with "no comment," but speculation was that Hannegan will receive not less than $1,000,000.

When the Cardinals were purchased from Breadon for $600,000, representing a price of $400 a share, Hannegan and Saigh were reported to be fifty-fifty on the deal.

soil and producing large yields were put into effect we would have a surplus of foods."

That much can be done to improve yields was shown by statistics gathered in experiments at State College, Pifer pointed out. On test plots where records were kept for 64 years it was found that lime alone plays an important part in keeping up production. A plot to which no lime was added during the 64 years showed a production of 79.4 bushels of corn per acre on an average for the first eight years of production, 33.4 bushels per acre during the 25th to 32nd year and 17.9 bushels per acre from the 52nd to the 64th year.

Reports Other Tests
Wheat, hay, and other crops showed similar drops when no lime was added. Hay dropped from 4,936 pounds per acre during the first eight years to 492 pounds per acre during the last eight years of the 64 year period.

Addition of phosphorus, nitrogen and potassium in tests over 56 years showed the production of wheat, corn, oats and hay more than double in the test fields, where the materials were added, over the amounts produced in the control fields where nothing was added.

"The condition of the people of America depends on the condition of America's soil," Pifer said. That addition of humus to the soil through hay sodding, cover crops and the like is of the utmost importance was stressed by Pifer. "The soil should be like a blotter soaking up the rain when it falls," he declared.

F. G. Bamer, also of the State College extension staff and Ira N. Dumire, assistant Adams county farm agent, also spoke during the afternoon program in which by lecture and motion picture details were presented on how to develop better soil and better yields.

OHIO RENEWS

TURNPIKE BILL

Columbus, O., Jan. 27 (AP)—Ohio's toll superhighway bill, ditched by the House of Representatives last session after the Senate had oked it, began another tour of the General Assembly yesterday.

The Senate highway committee called the controversial measure for a first hearing. Sen. Ralph A. Winter, sponsor of the measure, said the committee probably will approve it.

Winter said Pennsylvania has approved a western section of its superhighway from near Pittsburgh to Ohio's border. He wants Ohio to hook on with a similar road across the state heading toward Chicago and Detroit.

The bill would set up a commission empowered to build and operate four-lane roads. Tolls collected would retire bonds sold to raise capital for the highways. When the bonds are paid off, Winter said, the toll road would become a part of the free state highway system.

Rep. George H. Kirkpatrick, who led the opposition, has offered a proposal for voters to say at the polls whether they want toll roads. His plan is in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Today's Talk

HOW TO TAKE LIFE HAPPILY

In the first place, the way to take life happily is to take it as it comes, meeting every obligation and emergency with courage and patience. We never know what a day may bring forth, but if we are forearmed with a certain cheerful readiness, we can be assured that whatever may happen, we shall be able to meet it without fear.

Every experience in life resolves itself into a lesson. These lessons are what make us alert and alive to events. Said William James: "Let no young man have any anxiety about the upshot of his education, whatever the line may be. If he keep faithfully busy each hour of the working day, he may safely leave the final result to itself."

Worries won't help. They never have. But a cheerful outlook, and the courage to face all events as they occur, will help. Many people try to take too much life at a time, whereas it should be taken carefully, thoughtfully—even an inch at a time! I like those two words—without fear. Think for a moment how full of meaning they are. The shut-in realizes them and so is fortified with patience and a happy outlook.

Sorrow, disappointment and failure are difficult things to face—but they are a part of life, and come to all of us in time, in some form or other. But they can be made to be but temporary. We can arise, as the Prodigal Son did in the Bible story, and go to meet happier events. We can begin anew. Life is full of detours, but most detours bring us out to the smooth road eventually. And then the memory of the rough road is quickly forgotten.

No matter how difficult the way of life may appear at times, cheerfulness is bound to creep in, just like the sunshine does through dark clouds, when least expected. "Some days," said the poet Longfellow,
"must be dark and dreary." Do you ever note that those, who seem to experience more trouble than their share, actually take life in its stride—happily?

Each of us should early formulate a philosophy of life, personally conceived, and stay by it through thick and thin. Such a plan will do more to assure success and happiness than anything else. It will take anyone safely over the bumps!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Color and Tone"

OLD AND YOUNG

They told him that the way was long.
That difficult the task would be,
But, oh, the wish in him was strong Beyond the barriers to see,
"Perhaps," he answered, "just as you,
The time will come when youth I've spent I'll think there's nothing more to do
And with the past will be content.

"But I am young; still daring I,
Reckless, of failure unafraid,
For some discovery would try Which all too long has been delayed."

ASSERTS STATE
WON'T RETRENCH ON ROAD WORK

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (AP)—It would be "preposterous" for Pennsylvania to retrench its road building program, says Gov. James H. Duff. The governor made the comment to the 10th anniversary meeting of the Pennsylvania Roadside Council.

"Last year we had the greatest business increase of any industrial state in the nation," he said. "It would be preposterous to suggest that we surrender this distinction to someone else."

Some groups have asked the governor to retrench the state's road-building program rather than impose an additional gas tax to finance continued expansion.

"That won't happen as long as I am governor of Pennsylvania," he emphasized.

Honoring Vets
Duff has urged a one- or two-cent boost in the commonwealth's present four-cent gasoline tax to help finance the Highway Department's $100,000,000 improvement program.

The governor denied "reports you've heard that we're spending all our highways money in cities."

"There could be nothing else more fais," he said, adding that over a 10-year period 50.3 per cent of road construction money has been spent in urban areas and the remainder in rural sections.

MARINES STILL STAY IN CHINA

By FRED HAMPSON

Shanghai, Jan. 27 (AP)—Vice Adm.
Oscar C. Badger, U. S. western Pacific commander, said today some Marines soon would be withdrawn from China but emphasized enough would be retained to meet any emergency.

He said at a news conference that the present number in China (about 3,000 at Tsingtao and 600 at Shanghai) were more than he needed.

Badger said the Tsingtao Marines
"to some extent" are now being withdrawn from shore billets and placed on floating billets. He added
"it is foolish to maintain that many aboard ship, those we don't need would be better off at Guam and other shore bases."

The admiral did not say how much the Marine force in China would be reduced or whether the reduction would affect the 600 being kept aboard ship at Shanghai.

He said the question of sovereignty also was being considered in moving the Marines from shore to ship billets. He pointed out that Marines afloat, under innational law, do not infringe on the sovereignty of the host nation.

Admiral Badger emphasized, however, there had been no change in the Navy policy to maintain sufficient forces in China to serve as a "safeguard against uncontrolled violence, to afford protection to United States nationals and in so far as they are able to the nationals of other foreign countries."

tivity increased as prices slipped.
Pressure centered on the steel group.
Yesterday U. S. Steel led the steels upward with a gain of 4 1/2 points.

For Sterilization

Los Angeles, Jan. 27 (AP)—Mrs.
Georgette Brucks, 21, says she is reconciled to giving up motherhood for freedom.

She is under court order, entered with her consent, to have a sterilization operation as a condition of six years probation imposed after her plea of guilty to manslaughter in the fatal beating of her son, Howard, seven months, last October.

The order includes giving another son, Donald, 20 months, and a child
she expects in April for adoption.
Her common-law husband, Donald Redman, is the father of these children. Another son, four years old, is with his father, Edmond Brucks, in Ohio. The Brucks were never di-

REBELLION OF LANDLORDS MAY REACH COURTS

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 27 (AP)— The rebellion of landlords against federal rent control legislation "will be stopped by the courts," Texas Congressman Wright Patman told Tulsa and Dallas property owners by telephone early today.

The landlords have begun notifying tenants to vacate in 60 days so that the properties can be withdrawn from rental.

The owners used a half-page newspaper advertisement to proclaim that they refused to operate
"so long as rent control is on."

Patman was called in a long-distance conference with two unidentified Dallas renters and the Rev.
Wallace J. Murphy, a leader of the Tulsa revolt.

They asked just what effect he thought the protest action would have against passage of the disputed rent control bills pending in Congress.

Question Court Right
"He told us he thought it would hurt us," Murphy said.

Murphy, a Baptist minister, said
Patman was asked on what grounds courts could base an injunction against mass evictions when the present rent control law provides that landlords may withdraw their properties from the rental market on 60-day notice.

Patman's reply, according to Murphy, was that "the eviction notices weren't served in good faith."

The revolt was launched two days ago by the Tulsa property owners association of which Murphy is executive secretary. The association controls an estimated 3,000 rental units, many in lower rental brackets.

SUPREMACY IN ROCKET WEAPON RESEARCH WILL COST HEAVILY

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—The race for supremacy in ocean-spanning rocket weapons may result by 1952 in the United States devoting 40 per cent or more of its military budget to research, much of it going to guided missile development and production.

This estimate comes from some military scientists who prefer to remain anonymous but who are in a position to know the trend of thinking in the arms research field. Such an allocation would be a sharp increase over the present proportion of expenditures. President Truman's budget messages to Congress recommended a total national defense outlay for the next fiscal year of $15,900,000,000. Of this $534,000,000 would be for military research and development of all types, presumably with guided missiles only a part of that figure.

On Priority List
The President ranked research among the priority items of his military budget.

Overall direction and coordination of the military research program is by the research and development board, with the three armed forces carrying on most of the actual work. The Air Force and the Navy are allocated about 40 per cent each of the research budget funds, the Army, 20 per cent.

In mentioning the possibility that guided missiles might account for almost half of the military expenditures within the next few years, the scientists pointed out that did not necessarily mean rockets capable of pin-pointing a target on another continent would be perfected by then. But in that time the military scientists hope to have improved the propulsion and guiding

COURT BLOCKS MOVE TO GRAB MILK RECORDS

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (P)—A Dauphin county court order today barred the State Milk Control commission from obtaining the private records of 11 Pittsburgh dairies.

The order was obtained yesterday by Willis F. Daniels, attorney for the Greater Pittsburgh Milk Dealers Association, who asked the court to restrain the milk commission from acting.

The milk commission had asked for the records at the request of Albert D. Brandon, Pittsburgh assistant city solicitor. The milk dealers had been ordered to produce the records at a Pittsburgh milk hearing January 20 but only two companies appeared with their books.

Brandon then asked the commission to issue contempt citations against the dealers but Daniels' court move also halted that action.

He had asked for the records in connection with Pittsburgh's drive for a 2½ to three cent reduction in present 22-cent retail price for the Pittsburgh area. The price hearing had been continued until February 1 pending the production of the records.

"It just means the books will not be in evidence next Tuesday," Brandon said when he learned of the court move.

"It also means citizens of western Pennsylvania will continue to pay excessive prices for their milk while the dealers will continue to reap fat profits at the public's expense. The dealers are simply not being forced to comply with normal requirements of the law."

The commission, meanwhile, said the court action will have no effect on its plans to resume the Pittsburgh milk hearing February 1 in Pittsburgh.

FURTHER DROP IN LIVING COST

Washington, Jan. 27 (P)—Another drop in living costs—the third in as many months—is due to be reported today in the government's index for December.

The decline probably won't be as much, however, as it was in October and November. The index reached an all-time high of 174.5 in August and September (1935-39 equals 100).

The continuing drop in food prices is the biggest single factor in the falling level of consumer prices, since food figures heavily in the family budget requirements.

A new index decline might take some of the steam out of labor's drive for a fourth round of post-war wage increases. The index is approaching the level of early last summer at the height of the third round wage drive.

January sales of goods at reduced prices plus the food price situation is expected by government economists to bring about a further decline in the living cost index. However, the Bureau of Labor Statistics has just begun surveying January living costs and that index won't be ready for another month.

Twin Brothers, 23, Become Ministers

Philadelphia, Jan. 27 (P)—Twin brothers were among nine young men graduated today by the Philadelphia Lutheran Theological seminary.

The twins, who will be 23 years old next Wednesday, are Harry Roy Billow, who will take a pastoral charge at Salem, near Danville, and Paul William Billow, who will go to Quakake, Schuylkill county.

They are natives of McAllisterville, near Harrisburg, and alumni of Muhlenberg college.

Ordination exercises were held following the 85th commencement of the seminary. The Rev. Claude E. Schick, an officer of the Lutheran ministerium of Pennsylvania, was the speaker.

Others graduated and their assignments included: John B. Sanborn, Bethlehem, to Buffalo, N. Y., and Joseph H. Delbert, Pottstown, to the board of American missions for west coast service.

Pa. Soft Drink Tax Being Argued Today

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (P)—The merits and demerits of Pennsylvania's controversial soft drink tax came before the Dauphin court today in legal arguments.

The question arose in connection with suits of soft drink bottlers and syrup manufacturers attacking the constitutionality of the 1947 levy.

The tax of one cent on every 12 ounces of bottled soft drinks and one-half cent on every ounce of syrup used in making them at fountains was enacted two years ago. Gov. James H. Duff, who has urged its continuance for two more years despite opposition from bottlers and a state tax study committee.

At hearings last December, bottlers argued the levy is discriminatory and violates provisions of both the federal and state constitutions.

The commonwealth originally estimated the levy would bring in $35,000,000 in two years but later pared estimates down to $27,000,000 on the basis of collections in the first year.

The locals lost 17-9 at Mechanicsburg and since that time have won four straight games.

STATE SLATED FOR MORE RAIN

(By The Associated Press) Pennsylvania enjoyed a brief respite today from a series of rain, sleet and snow storms but more of the same was due by late afternoon. The weatherman predicted rain for the state's southern counties with freezing rain or snow expected in the central and northern sections.

Today's milder temperatures were expected to give way to colder readings by tomorrow (Friday) night. Wednesday's rain brought some of the state's streams, particularly in the western portion, to within several feet of flood stage but considerably more rain was needed before any rivers were expected to overflow their banks.

Many highways in the mountain sections of the commonwealth were covered by an icy glaze last night.

Temperatures ranging from 26 to 35 were reported, including 27 above at Wilkes-Barre and 29 at Allentown. Carbon county was gripped by its worst sleet and ice storm since New Year's Day, 1948.

In that county, power lines were threatened by ice. From three to five inches of sleet and ice was reported on the White Haven and Hazleton highways in the northern section of the county.

$4,369.48. Estimated receipts are shown as $6,525.82. Expenditures are: maintenance and repair of streets, roads and bridges, $2,000; salaries and wages, $1,000; materials and supplies, $2,500, total, $6,500.

The proposed budget was tentatively approved, and will be advertised for 15 days as required by law before final adoption.

The following bills were approved for payment: general borough fund, $997.39; water fund, $686.63; parking meters, $39.40; sanitary sewers, $387.35, a total of $2,410.85.

Discuss Meter Removal

A general discussion was held in regard to the removal of parking meters located in front of the post-office building, on East King street. It had been suggested at last month's council meeting that the second and third parking meters be removed to enable the highway post office truck to park. Upon investigation, it was found to be more advantageous to remove the first and second meters. This will give clearance to the corner for the post office truck. Upon motion it was agreed to remove the first two meters.

An ordinance amending and providing for the "Parking of Vehicles for Public Business Only" where these post office meters are removed was discussed. Therefore, Ordinance No. 121 was adopted and will be advertised according to law.

It was then decided by council to relocate the meters removed from East King street on the north side of West King street. Erection of the same is to be under the supervision of the chief of police.

It was revealed that commercial vehicles parking at meters while loading and unloading without depositing coins in the meters were abusing their privilege; also persons working within the immediate vicinity and parking without feeding the meters were taking advantage of the privilege. Therefore, the secretary was authorized to purchase one dozen Parking Meter bags with locks, for use on the parking meters by individuals engaged in work within the vicinity of the meter and parking longer than 30 minutes.

Rental Rate Fixed

Another motion was passed that the parking meter bags be issued to individuals, firms or corporations who desire to do work within the parking meter areas and at a parking meter space, on a rental basis of 15 cents for one-half day or fraction thereof and 25 cents for a full day. Applicants desiring to rent the bags will apply to the chief of police, who will be authorized to collect said rental.

Another motion was made and passed granting a half hour privilege to local merchants, plumbers and persons while loading or unloading within the parking meter area without paying for such parking. Parking longer than this limit will require the rental of the meter bag.

Chief of Police Gage submitted his annual report to council at a previous meeting but was tabled due to the lateness of the hour. It was accepted and made a part of the minutes.

Get Complaint

A complaint was laid before the council by Paul L. Hollinger, who said that during sewer construction, a vehicle owned by the Globe Contracting company had backed over his sidewalk at 109-104 South Queen street and had damaged his brick walk. Mr. Hollinger stated that he had taken the matter up with the Globe company, who promised to repair the same. Since nothing had been done to date, he requested the assistance of council.

President Robert informed Mr. Hollinger that it was advisable for him to contact the Globe Contracting company himself and if unsuccessful, it might be advisable for him to take the matter up with their insurance company. Council furnished Mr. Hollinger with the Globe company's address.

Street Repairs Needed

The street committee reported various streets and allies in need of repairs and the street commissioner was instructed to repair the alley adjacent to the Albert Shrader property between East King and Lumber streets, the alley between Charles and Cemetery streets, Talbot, Prince streets, and the alley adjacent to St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Treasurer's Report

Identifies Patient As Knife Wielder

New York, Jan. 27 (P)—Edward F. Murphy finally figured out what was so familiar about his next-bed neighbor at Cumberland hospital.

After studying his ward companion, Princey Bozella, for 48 hours police said Murphy identified him yesterday as the man who slashed him with a knife and robbed him of $30 in an after-midnight street hold-up January 2.

Bozella, 48, was arrested on a charge of felonious assault and kept in the hospital under police guard. He denied Murphy's charge asserting he was in another hospital January 2.

Murphy, a 23-year-old Brooklyn resident, entered the hospital last Saturday for treatment of back and kidney ailments. Bozella was admitted Monday suffering with ulcers. Murphy said Bozella whiled away the hours in the hospital showing him an Indian knife trick and that this reminded him of his assailant's knife hidden under an overcoat.

"BOXCARS" FLY FOOD TO CATTLE IN STORM'S GRIP

Ely, Nev., Jan. 27 (AP)—The Air Force worked as ranch hand again today for 200,000 livestock stranded in Nevada's worst winter in 40 years.

There was no doubt the airlift was easing the feed crisis. But ranchers feared some of the cattle and sheep will be so badly weakened even the advent of warm weather may not save them.

Commented White Pine county sheepman Jack Singleton: "Lots of times sheep that have been through what these animals have simply wilted when warm weather comes again; die like flies."

The Air Force called on 23 C-82 flying boxcars yesterday for the biggest day thus far.

It was 25 degrees below zero here yesterday.

New federal and state resources cheered stockmen today as reported relief measures prevented a complete loss of Utah's 1,200,000 head of snowbound sheep and cattle.

President Truman yesterday made an additional $200,000 available to disaster relief association, raising the total of such funds to $300,000. And the Utah legislature rushed through both houses a bill appropriating $250,000 for relief of stockmen.

Meanwhile, the third straight day without new snow or wind permitted trucks to move to virtually all herds in western Utah with supplies.

After a month of blizzards, snow, wind, rain and sleet, southern California basked today in what is now unusual weather. It is clear, calm and warm.

Scattered orchard heating was required early today. But the weather bureau expected none to be necessary tonight.

Miss Sterner, the 16-year-old winner at New Oxford, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton S. Sterner, Hanover R. 3. Second place was won by Jane Wolf, 17, daughter of Nelson Wolf, Abbotstown R. 1. Third honors went to Gloria Horn, 17, of New Oxford. Judges for the contest included Mrs. Preston Dallmyer, Mrs. Beulah Millar and Mrs. Claire Lookingbill.

Only a third of a point separated the second and third place winners at New Oxford, where the judges based their decisions on a total of 100 points. Miss Wolf had 91 2/3 points and Miss Horn had 91 1/3 points. Miss Sterner scored 95 2/3 points.

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—President Truman said today that he has asked Secretary of State Acheson to work out preliminary plans for the development of "skills" to improve living standards of the world's underdeveloped areas. He said such a step in the United States foreign policy program has been in his mind ever since the Marshall plan was inaugurated.

MEMBERS OF THE LAUREL FAMILY

About two years ago a lady living in a small village in northern France wrote the editor to ask if the "famous" sassafras tree of the United States would grow in her country, and if so, how she could purchase a small plant. This inquiry is pertinent to our plant family study today for two reasons—it demonstrates how a somewhat insignificant plant will gain a favorable reputation because of its name, and how little attention we pay to some of our most interesting plants.

Anyone who will carefully analyze the smell of sassafras will note an aromatic resemblance to the products from two of its plant relatives—cinnamon and camphor. The cinnamon we enjoy in and on our breakfast rolls is manufactured from the bark of Cinnamomum zylanicum (usually spelled zeylanicum). The species name is derived from Ceylon, one of its principal places of domestication. Camphor is obtained by distillation from another related genus, Cinnamomum camphora. In fact, the Laurel family abounds in genera with pleasant smells, such as Spice Bush (Benzoin), Sweet Bay, Cinnamon, Camphor, Anise wood, and one black sheep—the so-called Stinkwood (Ocotea bullata).

The family's name is prominent in history, for it was with leaves of Laurel, probably Laurus nobilis, that Greek heroes were crowned on their return from great military exploits. The leaves of this tree are still used in Turkey and other parts of the Near East to flavor certain fruits and for packing figs.

The outstanding edible product of the Laurel family is the avocado, the fruit of Persea gratissima, native to South America. The species name of this fruit means "very pleasing." It is one of the more nourishing fruits which have come into quite wide use over the past few years.

Our native laurel shrub, listed in most nursery catalogues as Kalmia, is not a member of the Laurel family. It is rightly classified among the Heaths, and is related thereby to the native Huckleberry, Blueberry, Cranberry, Sourwood, Rhododendron, Azalea and many other food and ornamental plants.

Spice bush (Benzoin) has many localized names, including Benjamin Bush, Wild Allspice, and Fever Bush. It is hardy in this latitude and merits wider culture for its early spring flowers and its autumn leaf coloring.

The Sweet Bay or Laurus sold as ornamental shrubs in large pots or tubs by nurseries and florists is harder than most growers believe. It is commonly grown in lawns and gardens in England and left outdoors over winter. All species permit severe pruning to control shape. Contrary to general theory, the bay rum of commerce is not derived from the leaves of this plant. However, the dried or cured leaves of Sweet Bay are highly prized in certain parts of the world for their aromatic value. This is the laurel of poets.

There are two recognized species of sassafras, although most persons think of this tree as belonging exclusively to America. But one species is native to central China. Our native sassafras is an excellent tree for individual roles in the home grounds. Its habits are clean and its fruits are relished in late fall and winter by many birds. However, it was perhaps the euphony of the name and not its merits as a shade tree that induced the lady of France to make her inquiry.

TIMELY NOTES ON HOTBEDS

Manure-heated hotbeds are needed for growing numerous early vegetable and ornamental plants, either for sale or for later use in the home garden. To gain the maximum benefits from a hotbed the gardener should have plenty of cold-frame space to which seedling plants can be moved in individual pots or bands after the hotbed heat has been employed to start them. In this manner the hotbed can be profitably used to start a succession of crops.

The bed, like a coldframe, should be located on the south side of a building, wall or heavy evergreen border so that the prevailing north and west winds are shut off without interfering with access to all-day sunshine.

If there is any danger of standing water in the pit, it should not be dug deep or it should have a drainage tile installed. If a shallow pit is necessary, more of the bed must extend above the ground level, in which case it must be banked liberally with soil to shut out the cold and retain the heat.

In this latitude a well tramped layer of manure 12 to 15 inches deep will keep the bed adequately warm over a period of 4 to 7 weeks where outside temperatures may go as low as 12 degrees above zero. Of course, covering the sash with mats, dry vegetation or other materials during periods of low temperature will prove practical.

As the heating capacity of the manure later declines, bed temperature may be raised somewhat or the bed carried through late cold snaps by removing some of the soil banking around the frame and replacing it with firmly tramped manure similar to that used in the bed.

Of course, every beginner wants to know what kind of manure is best for hotbeds. Experience has determined a simple and sound answer to this demand.

Horse or mule manure is necessary, directly from stables bedded with wheat straw. Where sawdust or wood shavings are used for bedding the manure will not serve for this purpose. The manure should not be exposed to outdoor weather (rain or snow) before it is made ready for the bed. At this stage four important but easy steps are suggested:

1. Take the manure directly from the stable and pile it in a long heap, tramping it down firmly and wetting all dry materials with a sprinkling can. The heap may be made on any solid ground or even beside the bed.
2. Manure will not fire-fang (burn) if it is tramped well when the fire is formed. Loose piling is the cause of burning.
3. After the material begins to heat throughout, fork it over into a second heap, turning the outside of the first heap to the center of the second, and again moistening all dry materials and tramping the heap firmly.
4. After heating resumes again the manure should be ready to place in the hotbed. At this stage it is quite moist and brown. Fork it apart finely and tramp it in the bed carefully.

From 5 to 6 inches of rich loam should be sifted over the manure or over fine dry straw spread over the manure. The soil should then be covered with doubled burlap or canvas but seed should not be sown until the bed temperature has risen to its peak, often 90 to 100 degrees or higher, and declined back into lower 80's. The only safe way to determine these temperatures is by thrusting an accurate thermometer into the soil.

Although the first wallpaper used in America was imported, by 1750 a Philadelphia manufacturer had established a good business in making them.

Governor Duff Puts Finishing Touches On Expected Billion Dollar Budget

WILL UNVEIL FISCAL PLANS NEXT WEEK

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (AP) — Gov. James H. Duff today put the finishing touches to an expected billion dollar commonwealth budget for the next two years. It will be unveiled to the General Assembly next week.

Republican leaders, driving for adjournment in April, got the word to look for Duff's financial recommendations when they return here following the week-end recess. No date for the presentation was set, however.

Both the Senate and House adjourned for the week yesterday after putting the $500,000,000 veterans bonus amendment in position for final enactment. Once the House approves it finally Monday, the question will be up to Pennsylvania's voters next November.

Appointments Wait

The upper branch also readied Duff's proposal for a summer camp for children at nearby Indian town Gap for a final Senate vote. It calls for use of the $85,000,000 military reservation between Guard encampments for outdoor recreation for underprivileged children.

The Senate also is expected to act on more than 400 appointments made by Governor Duff in the last two years. Up for consideration also will be the re-appointment of John B. Conly, of Pittsburgh to a full 10-year term on the Public Utility commission.

Although Duff's budget figures are a closely guarded secret, his specific recommendations will follow closely those made in his message at the opening session of the Legislature.

To Add Housing

Two years ago, the Legislature appropriated $595,000,000 for general government operations and another $301,000,000 was earmarked for highway purposes. These two items, together with other funds and a proceeds of a $50,000,000 public improvement bond issue, brought the two-year budget total to $955,000,000.

The new budget may run as much as $90,000,000 above that figure.

Governor Duff already has called on the Legislature to press ahead without let-up on the program of his first two years and added a new one — a state wide housing program. Some sources indicated the latter may cost $22,000,000 in the next two years.

On the revenue side, Duff has called for continuance of present taxes which he said will bring in $58,000,000 more than originally estimated. At the same time, he urged a one or two cent boost in the state's four-cent gasoline tax. A one cent increase will mean $37,500,000 in two years.

Big Question Mark

But the surplus from the present fiscal period will be more than swallowed up by deficiencies in 1947 appropriations and $34,000,000 needed for education under present laws, $7,500,000 to launch financing of a $500,000,000 veterans bonus and more than $14,000,000 for increase state salaries.

Demands for sharp increases in state aid for hospitals and expanding costs of operating state mental and other institutions also face the budget makers.

Still the big question mark as the budget neared completion was the amount of long-range government costs which can be shifted to a general building authority, if the Legislature follows the governor's suggestion that it be re-established.

Such an authority is expected to take over a new $60,000,000 mental hospital construction program, a multi-million dollar building program for state operated schools and a big share of the $25,000,000 needed to complete the Schuylkill river clean-up.

FOUR HOLDOUTS AMONG INDIANS

Cleveland, Jan. 27 (AP) — Like everything else these days, a world's championship and an all-time attendance record in baseball come high.

President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians knows because he's already met with rebuffs in attempts to sign four of his key players.

Third Baseman Ken Keltner and Fireball Hurler Bob Feller are the latest to shy away from wet ink on a contract. Others objecting to terms are Pitchers Gene Bearden and Bob Lemon, who with Detroit's Hal Newhouser were the only 20-game winners in the American league last season.

Feller and Veeck conferred for an hour and a half at the stadium offices yesterday afternoon but were unable to agree on a bonus clause based on home attendance.

The two plan to meet again February 6 in New York, where they are to attend a baseball writers' banquet. If Feller agrees to terms at that time, he probably will sign the contract here a day or two later.

Keltner called Veeck yesterday from Milwaukee and is believed to have asked for a slightly better offer. Veeck told Keltner he would confer with him in Milwaukee February 14.

Bearden is believed to be holding out for $20,000, an increase of several thousand more than he was offered.

EXPERTS STUDY TRUMAN'S NEW FOREIGN POLICY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

President Truman's idealistic project of aiding backward countries is described by Secretary of State Acheson as a proposal for raising living standards in order to promote political improvements and greater liberty. It would use material means for a non-material end.

Already talks are in progress between United Nations economists and the State Department on the implications of Mr. Truman's idea. Over in Europe British Foreign Secretary Bevin pledges that England will join the United States in an all out "answer-to-communism" crusade against poverty in Africa and the East.

Thus we are beginning to move from the broad conception of the idea towards concrete definition and details for implementation. The process now going on is, I imagine, perhaps very like that which Thomas A. Edison pursued in arriving at an invention like the "talking machine." One can almost hear Edison say to himself: "The world needs a machine that can record spoken language and repeat it. Therefore we shall create a talking machine."

Ideals Count

So with an idea as the starting point he began the research which resulted in the machine. Maybe it didn't happen that way—but it could have. Many of the world's greatest developments started as visions.

And don't let anybody tell you ideas don't count. They're about the only things that do count.

Such morale is needed as much today as it is in war.

But doesn't charity begin at home?

Sure it does, and we've got a lot of inequalities to iron out here in America. Moreover, we haven't any money to throw away.

However, that needn't prevent consideration of the idea of helping the other fellow, especially since by strengthening him we may help defeat Bolshevik aggression.

The greatest distress of course is in the backward countries of Africa and Asia. In many areas hunger is accepted as an inevitability. Those who die are lucky. It is the living who are the unfortunates.

Naturally it is amidst such distress that communism frequently gets a hold. So would any other ism which preached hope. It is the straw at which the drowning clutch.

The President's thesis, I take it, is that the best way to fight communism is to remove this distress in which it flourishes.

Before the end of the War of 1812, the British Navy, which started the war by numerous naval defeats, had sunk, captured or blockaded every American frigate.

Chapter 18

Jack Barnes stood at the desk of the Standish Hotel talking to the manager and wondering if he looked as badly as he felt. At best, he reflected, this interview would make him the laughing-stock of his co-workers.

At the worst, Jack reflected still further, the interview would result in his losing his job as day clerk. The manager was a difficult man and extremely critical of his help. Jack didn't want to lose the job. He had hoped to make good on it, if only to prove to his father that he was worthy of the salt that went into his bread.

He hadn't wanted to come to the hotel at this hour of the night and in this unsightly condition. Moreover, it made a liar out of him. He was supposed to be home, sick with a summer cold. At least that was what he had told the manager on the telephone this morning.

But he had no choice in the matter. He had promised both Betty and Mrs. Warren to bring Gertrude back alive and unharmed.

"Is Bobby Costello, the band leader, still registered here, Mr. Grant?" he asked by way of an opening. He did not want to incriminate Gertrude if he could possibly help it.

"No. He checked out around noon. Say, I thought you were sick, Barnes."

"I—er—yes, I am sick." That was no lie, Jack reflected. He was sure he had never spoken truer words. He had expected to find Gertrude at Costello's side weeping over his wounds and other-wise making a fool of herself. If Costello had gone, undoubtedly the dumb little fool had gone with him.

"You don't look sick. Matter of fact you look—" The manager paused and peered over his glasses at the battered young man who, in another incarnation, had been his favorite day clerk. "Barnes!" he roared. "What the devil's happened to your face?"

"Nothing," Jack, shielding his face with his hand, tried to assume a nonchalant air, and failed miserably.

"Nothing?" repeated the manager. "Good God, man, do you mean to stand there and say—" Words failed him.

"I—well, I first cut myself with a razor when I was shaving. Then I ran headlong into a—er—a door. You know how things always happen in three, Mr. Grant," he added lamely. "First you come down with a cold in the summertime. Then you cut yourself. Then you start bumping into doors and things. You know."

Much to Jack's surprise, the manager appeared to believe him. "That's too bad," he said, shaking his head in commiseration. "Once I cut myself three times on the same day with the same razor. Nobody would believe that either."

The grin that followed the manager's cryptic remark emboldened Jack to inquire about Gertrude. "Is Miss Warren registered here? Miss Gertrude Warren of Carrollton?"

"Here's a Miss Greta Warren from Hollywood, California," he offered. "She registered sometime this morning when the relief man was on duty. But there's no Gertrude Warren of Carrollton."

"I'd like to check on it anyhow," Jack said firmly. "If you must know, she's had a little spat with her mother—about a career or some such nonsense. You know how kids are."

He turned back to the manager. "Mr. Grant, I'd appreciate it a whole lot if you'd check. You're practically a newcomer in these parts and you don't know what it means to a family like the Warrens for a girl to leave home. I've just been talking to Gertrude's mother and she's frantic."

It was Gertrude. Even as they drapped on the door, Jack and the hotel manager could hear her weeping. Soon she came to the door and opened it. She was fully dressed, but the pink linen suit she was wearing was crumpled and tear-splotted. Her small round face was streaked with mascara and her blonde hair, with which she had tried to achieve a sophisticated effect, was now hanging in damp tendrils on her neck.

For a moment she stood there, staring out at them, her blue eyes dark with misery. She looked like anything but a sophisticated. She looked more like a tired little girl whose world has fallen apart in her hands.

"He—he's gone!" she wailed. "We were going to run off and get married. We had everything planned—and now he's gone!"

Jack patted her shoulder and made a feeble attempt to stop her from saying more. "Okay—so he's gone. Now run wash your face and let's get started for home. Your mama's having catfits."

There was no stopping Gertrude. "We couldn't have gotten married anyhow—not really. He was already married, Jack. He had a wife all the time, but he didn't tell me till today. And now I—I'll never see him again."

"That's enough, Gertie," Jack unwound her arms from around his neck and stepped into the room. "Skip all that nonsense and get a move on. Go into that bathroom." He pointed. "Wash that junk off your face before I slap it off. See that you make it snappy, too. You're getting out of here in two minutes flat."

Gertrude's mouth flew open in astonishment, but she did not say anything. She glared at him for an instant, then turned and flounced into the bathroom, slamming the door behind her. All men were

Paint Feeds Fire That Levels Barn

Philadelphia, Jan. 27 (AP)—Fire, fed by large quantities of paint, damaged a large three-story barn last night on the estate of Mrs. Eleanor Widener Dixon in suburban Elkins Park.

Superintendent Harold Graham estimated the damages at some $20,000.

Firemen brought the blaze under control before it threatened the main house on the estate.

But a two-story frame cottage was in line of the fire and firemen carried 10-year-old Mary Gibbons, ill with the grippe, on a stretcher from her room in the house. The cottage was not seriously damaged by the fire.

BETHLEHEM'S BOARD MEETS

New York, Jan. 27 (AP)—Another page of the steel industry's biggest year unfolds today with Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s preliminary report for 1948.

The largest net income in the corporation's history is assured. Bethlehem is the nation's second largest steel producer and like others in the industry has been operating at a record time.

Directors at their quarterly meeting today hear the report on earnings, and act on dividends. Announcements on both were scheduled to be made after the close of the stock market (3 p. m., Eastern Standard Time).

Special attention centered on the Bethlehem directors' meeting since the action of United States Steel Corp., Tuesday in declaring a special $1 dividend and proposing a 3-for-1 stock split. Bethlehem has paid dividends of 60 cents a share on its common stock since the end of 1947.

In the first nine months of 1948, net income of Bethlehem was higher than in any previous 12-month period. The three-quarter total was $53,183,858, equal to $5.39 a common share. In all of 1947, best previous year, the corporation reported net income of $51,088,375, or $4.98 a share.

The world wheat crop last year was about 4 per cent above the pre-war average.

The United States, with only 6 per cent of the world's land area, produces 60 per cent of the world's wheat.

ACHESON TAGS COMMUNISM AS "REACTIONARY"

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Acheson calls Communism reactionary.

He said it at a news conference yesterday. And he was right. But why was he, since so many people think of Communism as "radical"? Reactionary means going back, not forward. It's a return to the old way of doing things, says the dictionary. And in its handling of people — disregard for the freedom of the individual — Communism has turned the clock back a thousand years.

Change In Wrong Direction

Radical, in the dictionary, means a sweeping change in laws or government. And Russian Communism, in the 1917 revolution which put them in power, certainly made sweeping changes in Russia.

So anyone who thinks of Communism as radical in that sense — a sweeping change — is right.

But that doesn't mean because a change has occurred the change is a step forward. And if you think of the Communist government as radical in the sense of being new, you're wrong.

Western society developed to its highest point the idea that each human being is a free person.

Still A Minority

It wasn't in perfect working order. Western men were trying to make it more perfect. Then came the Russian revolution.

When the Bolsheviks, now called the Communists, seized power in the 1917 revolution, they were only a minority group in Russia.

They still are a minority group there. Only 6,000,000 of Russia's 200,000,000 are permitted to belong to the Communist party. And that small group — and just because it is so small — runs the country by force.

Evils As Bad As Before

The Russians had been oppressed by the Czars, up to the time of the revolution. Did the revolution mean a new freedom for the mass of the Russian people, something that would bring them abreast of the political and individual freedom men in the west were getting?

No. It meant a secret police, jail without trial, shooting or exile to Siberia. It meant a control and secret terror as bad as the Czars had used. (True, the Russian people under Communism may be better off economically than under the czars but this story — and Dean Acheson — talks of western man's greatest progress: political freedom.)

Toward Dark Ages

Many people in this country have been pro-Communist or sympathetic to Communism for various reasons, such as being muddled.

Being that way they accepted blindly the idea put out by Communists that Communism would lead to a brave new world and a better life.

But if they look at the whole picture clearly and coldly, can they have any real faith in a future promise that starts out with the step backward into the dark ages?

CITIZENS TO BATTLE SMOG

Donora, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—Residents of Webster, a nearby community of 1,800 population, plan to incorporate so they can "fight pollution of the air by industrial plants."

Seven of the 22 deaths in Donora's disastrous "smog" of three months ago were in Webster. Citizens say the prevailing winds that blow from Donora and that Webster folk suffer more from "industrial fumes" than do Donorans themselves.

"What we want is permanent protection from such hazards," said Abe Celapino, chairman of a temporary committee for incorporation. Celapino declared when residents of Webster tried to get laws passed, forbidding plants to issue dangerous fumes, "we found we had to be a municipality in order to get action from our state legislature."

About 150 townsfolk attended a meeting last night and voted in favor of incorporation. Another session is set for next week when an even bigger turnout is expected.

The smog deaths occurred three months ago when a thick, soupy, smothering fog blanketed the Monongahela Valley here for several days.

HORSE RACING BILL STIRS UP OLD FOES

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (AP)—Church and other anti-gambling groups hastened today to kill a horse racing bill designed to raise money for a veterans' bonus.

The Federal legislative committee, an organization of church groups, issued a statement criticizing the measure to legalize pari-mutuel betting.

"We are against horse racing betting in any form because we already have too much gambling in Pennsylvania—and we are certainly against this bill," said the Rev. O. B. Poulson, Harrisburg, the committee's vice president.

Introduce Measure
Three Philadelphia Republicans, Frank Costa, Cornelius J. Loftus and John R. McCormack, introduced the measure yesterday. Similar legislation has failed in the past because of church opposition.

But the new wrinkle is earmarking six per cent of the gross betting receipts to finance a $500,000,000 veterans' bonus. Costa estimated the commonwealth take would be between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000 a year.

The legislature is presently speeding action on the veterans' bonus plan which is expected to cost up to $15,000,000 a year. Under it Pennsylvania's 1,314,000 veterans of World War II would get up to a maximum of $500 each, depending on length of service.

It's Provisions
Mr. Poulson said the bonus angle is "just a plain bluff to the veterans," adding: "I've seen too many bank clerks come away from the track with an anxious look."

The legislation calls for: A statewide referendum in the next primary followed by local referenda in the counties where big major tracks would be located by private interests. Appointment of three $5,000-a-year

QUIZ AIDES IN O'MALLEY CASE

Philadelphia, Jan. 27 (AP)—The commonwealth is quizzing two court aides of Magistrate John J. O'Malley in its second court battle to convict him of malfeasance in office.

The witnesses, stenographers who served O'Malley in central police station hearings, were called upon yesterday to read from their notes on proceedings before the magistrate on indictable offenses over a three-year period.

But Laurence Eldredge, special deputy attorney, said he has not abandoned his fight to streamline

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kump, Harrisburg, were recent guests of his uncle and aunt, Samuel and Miss Bessie Kump.

Roy Mickley visited recently at the home of his sister, Mrs. Janie Benchoff, and family, of Greenstone.

the second trial of O'Malley by allowing transcripts to be introduced.

"I hoped to reach an agreement with the other side," he said. Meanwhile, Eldredge plunged into the details of each of the 168 counts that charge O'Malley with changing decisions illegally. Testimony showed that in many instances the cases the stenographers, James A. Bradley and David F. Houlihan, Jr., had noted as held in bail for grand jury were disposed of in the dockets by discharge or small fines.

O'Malley's second trial opened this week. The first trial last November ended when the jury failed to agree.

SCHOOLS TO GET STATE AID FOR ANOTHER YEAR ON OLD BASIS

Harrisburg, Jan. 27 (AP)—Pennsylvania's school districts will continue to get state aid under the present system for another year under a bill readied for a Senate vote next week.

Sen. Fred P. Hare (R-Somerset), sponsor of legislation to postpone the shifts from assessed to market values in calculating school grants, said the action was necessary because "school boards are making up their budgets now and must know the state funds they can expect."

A 1947 law created a state tax equalization board with authority to determine the market values of real estate in every one of the state's thousands of school districts. The data will be used eventually to determine how much state aid each district will receive.

The board already has reported informally that market values in virtually every school district are much greater than assessed valuations. A shift to the market values would result in sharp cuts in state grants under the present subsidy standards.

Hare's measure changes the 1947 tax equalization law to provide that payments on market values start for the 1949-50 school year instead of during it. This means that payments made this year will be on the old basis and the new system will go into effect in 1950, if the measure is enacted.

Sen. Frederick L. Homsher (R-Lancaster) already has offered a bill

Injunction Halts Mercantile Tax

Media, Pa., Jan. 27 (AP)—A mercantile tax passed by the city council of Chester will not go into effect next week as planned.

The tax has drawn the opposition of the Chester Business Men's Association in the form of a petition calling the levy "unreasonable, discriminatory and excessive."

Judge Henry G. Sweeney yesterday acted on the petition and issued an order prohibiting the city from putting the ordinance into effect until the court rules its legality at a hearing February 14.

The city passed the ordinance last December aiming at pouring some $168,000 additional revenue into the city treasury annually. But between passage and final reading the city council upped the amount of the proposed tax to a rate of one mill on wholesale sales and two mills on retail. That change between first reading and final passage, the businessmen claim, invalidated the ordinance.

to increase the maximum state subsidy any teaching unit can receive from $2,400 to $3,300 for the 1949-50 school year. At the same time, he proposed a reduction in the rate of the so-called local effort from six to four mills.

The state Department of Public Instruction now multiplies the assessed valuation of a teaching unit—22 high school and 30 grade school pupils—by six mills and subtracts the result from the $2,400 subsidy maximum to determine the allowance per teaching unit.

Any sharp boost in the valuation, by use of market values, would result in a correspondingly drastic cut in state grants.

BRITISH LABOR GOVERNMENT IS VICTOR IN TEST

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
London, Jan. 27 (AP)—Britain's Labor government won a vote of confidence on the Palestine question by the margin of 90 votes in its first major foreign policy test in Parliament.

Criticized on all sides, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's policy was approved by the House of Commons by 283 to 193 last night after a sharp debate of seven hours. The vote was on a Conservative motion not to adjourn and came after Prime Minister Attlee declared the question was one of "confidence in the government."

The issue brought the first break in the previously solid Labor-Conservative lineup on international questions and the defection of a big bloc of Laborites. The government's majority was the smallest on a major issue since it came into power in 1945.

Still Counting Votes
The Israeli government, which Britain refused to recognize for more than eight months, appeared likely to be little changed as a result of election of a 120-member constituent Assembly in the Jewish state.

With about 60 per cent of the votes counted from Tuesday's election, the Labor party (Mapai) of Premier David Ben-Gurion was emerging head and shoulders above all others with nearly 35 per cent of the vote.

Communists were near the end of the parade with 3.5 per cent.

The test on Bevin's policy followed weeks of criticism in the press and Parliament of the government's sending troops to Aqaba, Trans-

Jordan port near Israel, and its loss of five planes shot down over the Israeli-Egyptian battle zone.

In the debate Winston Churchill accused Bevin of an "astounding mishandling" of the whole Middle Eastern problem. He demanded immediate recognition of Israel.

Liberals, Conservatives and dissident Laborites accused the Foreign Secretary of embarrassing Britain

NEW TRENDS EMERGE IN U.S. FOREIGN POLICY

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Jan. 27 (AP)—The U.S. treasury doors may be less open to foreign nations than they have been. Instead, private capital is being emphasized as a possible source of aid to friendly countries, in one of two new trends which seem to be emerging in American foreign policy.

The other apparently is aimed at presenting the United States as a rallying point to people all over the world in the cold war against communism.

Fresh Emphasis
President Truman struck the keynote in his inaugural address last week with his "bold new program" for developing backward areas of the world by private investment. Along with a smashing attack against the "false philosophy" of communism.

And Dean Acheson gave fresh emphasis to this apparent change of pace in the nation's foreign policy, in his first important public statement as Mr. Truman's new secretary of state.

He made it a point at his news conference to comment on the President's world development proposal, stressing anew that it calls for private investment, and, like Mr. Truman, accompanying that with a sharp rap at communism.

No Contacts Yet
Declaring that the President had made it clear these new developments were not to be financed by government money, Acheson said: "If the proper conditions are created, the reservoirs of private capital are very great indeed."

He disclosed that the President had directed the State Department to draw up a blueprint for the project, which is to be handled as

Littlestown

Littlestown—Elections were held Tuesday morning in the sixth grade of the Littlestown public schools. Mrs. Charles Held, teacher. The following were the results: John Harner, president; Ronald Strevig, vice president; Marilyn Spangler, secretary; and Louise Kerns, treasurer. They will hold office for a term of nine weeks. They succeed Terry Brown, president; Donald much as possible through the United Nations and in cooperation with other countries. He said that as yet there has been no direct contact with other countries about the program.

Some Misunderstandings
People all over the world, the secretary declared, seem to feel that all a country needs for its development is a steel mill or some other kind of basic industrial operation. They fail to understand, he said, the need for the slow development of skills to operate such plants, and they fail to understand that plants must be located in close relation to natural resources.

Finally, said Acheson, they fail to understand that "unless the conditions are created by which investors may fairly put their money into that country, then there is a great impediment to development."

Kump, vice president; Suzanne Harner, secretary; and Audrey Ellen Brumbach, treasurer.

Mrs. Kenneth D. James, Mrs. Maize Asper and Mrs. Malcolm Heiser will be hostesses to the January meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of St. John's Lutheran church this evening at 7:30 p. m. at the parsonage, West King street. A White Elephant party will be held.

Mrs. Arthur E. Bair, South Queen street, will be hostess to the monthly meeting of the Starr Bible class of St. Paul's Lutheran church on this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The program committee in addition to Mrs. Bair, who is chairman, includes Miss Lillian Dutera and Mrs. Edward Plunkert.

Walter Warwick, Schottle's hotel, returned to Littlestown on Tuesday, after a business trip of several days and a visit with his family in Boston.

The Rev. Kenneth D. James, pastor of St. John's Lutheran church, has been selected as one of the Youth Week speakers in a program conducted by the Christian Endeavor society of St. David's Union church, York county. The theme for the week will be, "Let God Speak." The Rev. Mr. James will be guest speaker on Sunday night.

Three basketball games have been announced for Saturday evening in the Littlestown high school gym. There will be a preliminary game at 7 p. m., when the Littlestown Juniors will play the Hoffman Orphanage. At 7:30 p. m., the Littlestown Girls' team will play a girls' team from Gettysburg. When these teams clashed two weeks ago, the game ended with a 43-43 tie. The feature game will be at 8:30 p. m., when the Littlestown Independents will play Charlie Keller's Middletown quintet.

Miss Doris Conover, East King street, was hostess on Monday evening to the January meeting of the Girls' Guild of St. Paul's Lutheran church. After the opening devotions which included group singing and a scripture lesson, the topic of the evening was discussed by the hostess. A guess package contributed by Miss Ruth Staub was received by the hostess. Following games, refreshments were served by Miss Conover. The date and place for the next meeting will be announced later.
